PROMOTE MULTIPLIER EVENT

PROMOTE partners met in Kaunas (LT) on 28-29 January, hosted by Vytautas Magnus University. The meeting was organised as a multiplier event addressed to representatives from business, higher education institutions, NGOs and policy makers. Participants had the chance to familiarise with the project objectives and the importance of informal learning at the workplace. They received valuable information on how to assess informal learning outcomes with regards to key informal competences. Moreover, they learnt how to support and optimize informal in-company learning processes.

Promoting and Validating Key Competences in Mobility and Traineeships in Europe

UCL and Vytautas Magnus University presented the example of a learning project to be used as a model for designing PROMOTE learning projects. Work groups were organised to discuss and develop competence oriented learning concepts for the students/interns.

After the training, participants will participate in the following project phases and particularly they will:

- ❖ Recruit students and/or professional, and adult learners
- ❖ Prepare the internships, traineeships, practice phases, placements with the learners
- ❖ Clarify the students' and interns' learning project
- ❖ Accompany them on the web learning platform My-VITA.

MY-VITA PLATFORM

My-VITA is the web learning platform which will be used in the future project phases. Learners will register on the platform and create a personal portfolio to collect all evidences of skills and competences. My-VITA platform will also be used as the development space for the projects which will be carried out in the framework of the project. My-VITA is connected to the LEVEL5 validation system for personal, social and organisational competences. By following the progress of learners' projects, HE professionals and also HR and training managers apply the holistic PROMOTE methodology in their organisation and use it for planning and implementing support measures for informal learning.
